Seeds of Joy Village Enrichment Program at Wilderness Park

Seeds of Joy Village (SOJV) is a Waldorf-inspired preschool that is immersed in nature. At SOJV, play is seen as serious work because it is through play that children discover, explore, learn to think creatively, solve problems and develop social skills. These skills build the foundation for successful learning in later grades.

CITY OF REDONDO BEACH HERITAGE COURT

Redondo Beach Historical Museum

302 Flagler Lane

310-697-3137

Historical.Museum@Redondo.org

Hours:

Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays:

Noon - 3 PM

The Redondo Beach Historical Museum was originally a home built on Garnet Street in 1904 by J.E. Early and later moved to 318 S. Broadway. The City acquired the home in 1989, saving it from demolition, and added a small room onto the back for additional display space. Also called the Queen Anne House after its architectural style, the house reflects classic Queen Anne Cottage design in its turned wooden posts and railings, tall narrow windows, open porch, steep roof, boxed cornice and fish scale gable front. The museum is owned and operated by the City of Redondo Beach with guidance from the City-appointed volunteer Historical Commission. Its collection consists mostly of photos and artifacts, mainly donated by the community.

Morrell House

300 Flagler Lane

(310) 379-6409 (for rental information)

Hours:

1st, 2nd and 3rd Saturdays of the month:
11 AM - 2 PM

1st, 3rd and 4th Sundays of the month:
11 AM - 2 PM

Constructed around the turn of the century, the Morrell House is a combination of Queen Anne and Craftsman detailing. It was originally located one house north of Diamond Street on the east side of North Catalina. It was occupied by the Morrell family from its construction until the mid-1950s and was one of the first houses in Redondo Beach to have electricity. Currently operated by the Redondo Beach Historical Society, which spearheaded its restoration when it faced demolition. Volunteers spent thousands of hours restoring the house and decorating it with period furnishings. The house is open for free tours and may be rented.

Pet Waste and Water Quality:

Dog and cat pet waste left on the ground not only looks and smells unpleasant; it can also be a serious environmental health concern. A single ounce of pet waste can contain over 650 million bacteria, viruses, and/or parasites. If left discarded, the pet waste decomposes and releases these harmful pathogens into the environment where it can be transported into local waterways via storm drains.

Pets, children playing outside in parks or water, and adults who garden are considered most at risk for infection from some of the bacteria and parasites found in pet waste. Contact with contaminated water or soil can cause mild to severe side effects including headaches, fever, diarrhea, and vomiting. The good news is that we can easily keep our community contamination free by simply remembering to always bring bags to pick up after your pet and promptly dispose of the bagged waste into a trash can!

Tips for Being an Environmentally Responsible Pet Owner:

 Bag it! For the community health and environmental reasons, always bring bags to pick up after your dog then dispose of the bag in a trash can. You can also keep an eye out for complimentary doggy bag stations around your local parks where visitors can find free dog bags and waste bins specific for pet waste disposal.

 Bath time tips: Bathe your dog in your bathtub using non-toxic shampoo, or have your pet professionally groomed. If outside bathing is needed, limit the use of shampoos, and place your dog on a permeable surface such as your lawn or a gravel that can absorb the water. These bathing tips will prevent the water flowing into the storm drain system, which flows untreated into local Redondo waterways.

 Do not compost: While livestock manure may be used as fertilizer, parasites carried in dog and cat waste can cause diseases in humans and should not be incorporated into compost piles. free by simply remembering to always bring bags to pick up after your pet and promptly dispose of the bagged waste into a trash can!
