Running for Higher Office?

Hold onto your hats folks! In the "Just When You Thought You'd Seen It All" political candidate column in Redondo Beach, it gets more bizarre! Now, don't get us wrong, we think it's great when seniors remain active but it's very hard to take one seriously who proudly admits to a constant use of CBD gummies! Sure, it's legal, but a mayor whose mind function appears altered every day isn't exactly a person clear-headed enough to do the heavy lifting business needed to guide the city.

We're about more than her desire for cannabis dispensaries in the city; discussions from which she'd have to recuse herself from anyway. And have you ever heard her speak at a city council meeting? She BLAMED THE CITY OF REDONDO BEACH for DENYING MEDICAL CARE! That's right, she publicly said the city is denying medical care by NOT having cannabis dispensaries in town! See what we mean about a clouded CBD mind? Good thing she publicly proclaimed she quit drinking since doing CBD! The city isn't responsible for ANYONE's medical care but this person is being untruthful because she's not getting what she wants. As an almost octogenarian, how much faster will her mind travel down falsehood roads? Anyone think this is a good image for running Redondo? Ruining Redondo?

Then there's her founding of a non-profit, Keep the Esplanade Beautiful, that NEVER reported donations they received or what they spent their money on. That's not legal. No matter how many times she was asked, she never produced the information. Could she be held accountable? Sure, but you know, nobody really wants to file complaints or lawsuits against an almost-octogenarian reliant on what seems to be daily CBD use, while scouring the online dating sites still looking for a match after more than a decade. We wonder if her pamphlet she calls a book, "Tips for Hot Sex" drives people away.

Daffy, goofy, distracted and far-too-set-in-her-mindless ways, she's harmless on her own. We wish her health and prosperity, much Khana LOVE, far, far away from City Hall.
