It is very challenging to listen to the BCHD CEO (a $350,000 per year taxpayer funded employee) whine about being questioned on BCHD's plans, given that BCHD is asking for SPOT UPZONING. Surrounding property in Redondo Beach has lost $75M in value based on its proximity to BCHD, while Torrance property have lost another $50M. BCHD is the single largest detriment to property value in Redondo Beach.

Further, BCHD's planned 100% commercially owned and operated development will service 80% to 95% non-residents of the District, in direct violation to the District's testimony to the Superior Court for condemnation and taking of the land on Prospect.

This is a specific comment in response to:

"Tom Bakaly, CEO for Beach Cities Health District, thanked Council for taking the time to consider their request; acknowledged they would need to go through the CUP process; referenced their certified EIR that was not legally challenged; noted the project is changing and evolving and urged City Council to approve it.

He responded to questions from Councilmember Nehrenheim regarding the Youth Wellness project, reduction of the scope from their original project and reported they will not be submitting an application at this time. He added that when Council asks him questions during public comments it feels like the City is singling them out.

Councilmember Obagi noted that the City has taken on a supplemental study for BCHD regarding this parcel and that is why the questions are being directed to him. He spoke about the CUP process and Planning Commission design review; shared slide 2B and statements indicating no physical development is proposed as part of the project; quoted from the Municipal Code specific to the need for Planning Commission design review and the appeals process; noted the matter will lead to an Article 27 vote; encouraged BCHD to look at alternatives for a well-accepted project by the community and to continue offering its services to the community."

Why are we buying cars from outside the south bay? We should support local businesses. Instead of going to Glendale try the Ford up the street in Torrance.

As mentioned on H.5.1 we should be supporting local dealers in the South Bay. If my search for Olath Ford is correct they are in Olath, KANSAS not even California. As a city we can do better by supported local businesses first.
